

Essential Question

Why is it important to form a valid (reasonable or sensible) and specific scientific question before conducting your research?