

Essential Question

How does coming up with a plausible solution for your scientific question help you design the measurements you need for your Mars Rover mission?